

Gas pipeline construction

Gas pipelines deliver gas from the fields to consumers overcoming various natural obstacles, mountains and rivers.

As with oil pipelines, the pipe turns as with oil pipelines are provided by fittings. Additionally, main gas pipelines are ramified (using smaller diameter pipes, as a rule) to meet the demands of local consumers, for instance, in the regions. Various types of fittings are also used for this purpose.